International Accreditation

The University of Liverpool Management School now has AACSB Accreditation – achieved by less than 5% of business schools worldwide.

Accreditation from the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), one of the world’s leading business school accreditation organisations, is a hallmark of excellence and widely sought after by business schools worldwide.

The accreditation covers all the school’s programmes, including the MBA, Doctor of Business Administration (DBA) and specialist MSc degree studies delivered online in partnership with Laureate Online Education.

Highest achievement

AACSB Accreditation Standards require a high quality teaching environment, a commitment to continuous improvement, and curricula responsive to the needs of business.

John J. Fernandes, president and chief executive officer of AACSB International, said:

“AACSB Accreditation represents the highest achievement for an educational institution and its college of business. Through accreditation, the University of Liverpool has not only met specific standards of excellence, but has also made a commitment to ongoing improvement to ensure that the institution will continue to deliver high quality education to its students.”
AACSB International is the largest and the longest standing specialised accrediting agency for business and accounting programmes in the world. Earning AACSB Accreditation is a voluntary process requiring significant commitment, self-assessment, peer review and dedication. Every five years, schools must pass a rigorous peer review in order to maintain their accreditation.

What does this mean for students and graduates?
AACSB Accreditation provides students and graduates with the peace of mind of knowing that their school has the mark of distinction and quality as well as:

- Well-recognised standards - AACSB Accreditation is seen as one of the world’s most selective and rigorous types of evaluation for business schools.
- High quality academics and faculty - AACSB-accredited schools can hire and retain top quality professors and researchers.
- Global reputation – recognition worldwide by other universities and top employers.
- Value and Return on Investment - graduates from AACSB-accredited schools are well-positioned to compete for high salaried posts with leading employers.

“The online format allows very senior working executives with a scholar-practitioner perspective to share their daily challenges. Only a high quality online programme can offer this.”
Neil J. Campbell, Executive Chairman & Managing Director at Mosaigen
Current DBA student

“I would recommend the University of Liverpool because the level of qualification is recognised worldwide, and studying here will help anyone’s career to move forward.”
Echard McLaughlin, Licence & HR Manager, Information and Telecommunication Authority, Cayman Islands.
